ACTION AID

This project was developed in response to a collaborative brief connected to ActionAid’s work in Thessaloniki, focusing on communicating the urgency of climate change to a young audience with limited prior awareness of the issue.

I created illustrative campaign visuals and applied a consistent visual identity across proposed merchandise and printed materials, including a campaign leaflet. The project focused on translating complex issues into clear, accessible visual communication suitable for campaign use.

Software: Adobe Illustrator, Adobe Photoshop, Adobe InDesign

Merch for the campaign was selected for giveaways

FOURNOS

GEORGE NOUSIOS

Fournos is a fictitious food brand developed as part of a university brief focused on creating a cohesive and adaptable visual system. The project explored character, tone, and recognisability through a series of illustrated product icons.

I designed a consistent set of icons intended for use across packaging, apparel, and digital platforms, ensuring they worked both individually and as a unified system.

Software: Adobe Illustrator, Adobe Photoshop

FUTURISM IN REVIEW

GEORGE NOUSIOS

Futurism in Review is a hypothetical non-profit conference developed as my final major project. Using an event-based context, the project explores the contemporary relevance of the Futurist movement, drawing on ideas of movement, dynamism, and experimentation.

I designed a complete visual identity and applied it across posters, digital advertising, organisational materials, merchandise, and a website concept, with a focus on adaptability across different formats
